

Altice Connects Charity Champions Check Presentation to Mount Sinai High School with Suffolk County Legislator Sarah Anker

'Altice Connects Charity Champions' Promotes Volunteerism, Raises Funds for Select Local Charities

On December 8, 2016 representatives from Altice USA presented students at Mount Sinai High School with a donation for $1,250 for their selected charity, Holiday Magic. The students participated in the Altice Connects Charity Champions program, which promotes volunteerism and helps students raise money for a charity of their choice. In addition to funds raised through the Altice Connects Charity Champions program, these students raised an additional $8,000 through their own fundraising for Holiday Magic. Holiday Magic is a not-for-profit organization which began in 1990 to provide holiday generosity and spirit to those less fortunate.

L-R:
Students; Robert Grable, Principal; Matthew Dyroff, Assistant Principal; John Wilson, SADD Advisor; John McHugh, SADD Advisor; Edward Law, Vice President, Mount Sinai Board of Education; Sarah Anker, SC Legislator; Lynn Capobianco, President, Mount Sinai Board of Education; Gordon Brosdal, Superintendent, Mount Sinai School District

L-R:
Students; John McHugh, SADD Advisor; John Wilson, SADD Advisor; Charlie Russo, Founder, Holiday Magic; Edward Law, Vice President, Mount Sinai Board of Education; Gordon Brosdal, Superintendent, Mount Sinai School District; Lynn Capobianco, President, Mount Sinai Board of Education; Sarah Anker, SC Legislator